

scholars primarily in Indian business schools. We invite you to join this initiative and help in our efforts.

The workshop aims to advance the research capability of new faculty and senior doctoral students by providing them with the opportunity to interact with distinguished scholars, and get feed-back on their research. We hope to attract scholars trained in related disciplines such as political science, economics, psychology, and sociology but interested in entrepreneurship research. While the specific idea is to help scholars improve the quality of their research, our hope is broader – to build research capacity in India and neighboring countries which will enable scholars here to publish in top-tier journals and thus participate in the global exchange of ideas. We also welcome papers from other parts of the world researching on entrepreneurship in emerging economies.

The conference will have two parts. The morning interactive panel sessions will address broad topics, such as identifying significant research questions, designing appropriate research methodologies, managing collaborative research, manuscript development, and managing journal review process. The afternoon will be discussions with resource faculty in small groups for a detailed discussion on the participants' manuscripts with a view to provide constructive feedback. Participants will be able to develop a concrete action plan for advancing the manuscript based on the feedback from the resource faculty and peers.

Due to the highly interactive nature of this initiative, participation will be limited. Participants will be selected based on the promise and quality of their submitted work. Other things being equal, preference will be given to those who are current members of the SMS. In the event of a co-authored paper, only one author will be invited to attend. Some of the criteria for the selection include: Is the research question interesting and significant? What is the potential impact of the paper on the entrepreneurship or strategy literature? Can the paper be improved during the conference? Does the paper show some promise to be published in a top tier journal.

The Strategic Management Society (SMS) is unique in bringing together the worlds of reflective practice and thoughtful scholarship. The Society consists of more than 2,500 members representing over 65 different countries. Membership, composed of academics, business practitioners, and consultants, focuses its attention on the development and dissemination of insights on the strategic management process, as well as fostering contacts and interchange around the world.

The Society is probably best known through the Strategic Management Journal (SMJ) published by John Wiley & Sons. This Class A journal has become the leading scholarly publication in the field of Strategic Management and is consistently rated one of the top publications in the management area. The Society launched a new quarterly journal, the Strategic Entrepreneurship Journal (SEJ) in 2007 and will now start a third quarterly journal, the Global Strategy Journal (GSJ). The intent is for the GSJ and the SEJ to soon also become a Class A journal and to promote the development and dissemination of advances in the field by maintaining the highest standards of intellectual thought combined with practical relevance, just as their sister publication SMJ has done for many years.
